The unique fostering of the puny baby child, Edith Eleanor McLean, whose immature vitality was sustained, augmented and confirmed by a batching machine," was told first by THE EVENING WORLD and then copied all over the country by the press.

The Myer-McAuliffo fight was published with elaborate details in THE EVENING WORLD. A novel feature of the paper was the sole pub-ligation of a series of copyrighted letter, by that fascinating worldling "Clara Belle," The hat ever recured such a contribution from this 'Junios" of feminine bettes-tettres.

The huge Sugar Trust was thoroughly exam ined, and the two sides of this overshadowing mercantile power depicted in a masterly way in THE EVENING WORLD.

The Flack indictments were announced in Tun EVENING WORLD as an exclusive piece of new half an hour after they were signed. The site selected for the World's Fair was told the people by THE EVENING WORLD twenty-four hours before the Board had announced the offi cial selection of it. A great piece of exclusive other great news story was the fire at the Park Hotel at Hartford, and the exclusive new of the flood in New Jersey. THE SPORTING EXTRA.

The sporting extra covered every item of in terest that took place in the world of sport for the twenty-four hours preceding its issue. These sporting stories were fuller than those supplied by any other paper, they were more ac curate and the paper was on the street before any of its rivals. In the great Futurity Stakes and other big racing events THE EVENING

WORLD presented pictures showing the exact positions of the horses as they came under the wire-a feat never before attempted in after noon-paper journalism. OUR FICTION STORIES. Another brilliant feature—too great to be re garded as a mere adjunct - was the literary pabulast which THE EVENING WORLD supplied to its penny purchasers.

Among the more celebrated serials thus put lished were Frank R. Stockton's "Great War Syndicate," for which he received $10,000 Jules Verne's "Conquest of the Air;" W. H. Ballon's "Bide on a Cyclone," one of the three best selling novels of the year; Nellie Bly's original story, "The Mystery of Central Park," and stories by such well-known writers as Sims, F. R. Robinson, Mrs. Alexander, W. H. Norri and several other equally known American and English authors. FIGURES THAT SPEAK.

One final word, a numerical one. Figures speak for themselves. Take these for instance of the paper's circulation and let them stand without comment. Nothing can enhance them. nothing can detract from them:

June 4. Whitechapel murder, 181,820 July 11. John L. Sullivan's arrest, 185.540 August 28. Dempsey-La Blanche fight, 186.

July 10. Johnstown Flood, 186,360 copies. March 18, "" Patrick's Day " paper, 205,640

August 23. Quadruple execution in Tombs, 348,010 copies. April 30. Washington Inauguration Ceremoies, 351,728 copies, July 8. Sullivan-Kilrain fight, 406,108

The average circulation of THE EVENING WORLD for the first three months of its existsuce was 74,746, and for the past three months it was 164,424. THE WORLD moves on.

THE SICK BABIES' FUND.

The "Evening World's" Great Work for the Ailing Little Ones of the Tenements,

HE Sick Babies' Fund or the work of the Fre Doctors, deserves the foremost place in THE EVENINO WORLD'S role ementa for sufferers. Contributions from the public secured a fund of $6,680.74, which was expended for the relief of the suffering babies in crowde tenement houses. It is doubtful if an count amount of good was ever accomplished with the same means. No family in this great city could feel that it was unable to furnish to its wailing children the medical attendance and necessities which their sad condition demanded.

The horrid death of an estimable lady who perished a victim to the outrageous "bobtail" system, rounted the evil of the nuisance eloquently indeed. It is enough that they are gone, and it is something which THE EVENING WORLD can deservedly congratulate itself on to have been the factor which brought about their elimination.

THE FREE LECTURES.

A Great Benefit to Thousands of Seekers After Information and Knowledge.

improving the community, and every sound educational advantage bestowed on the masses of a great city is a direct. blow at the spirit which fosters anarchy and crime. The free lectures rought about by Tun Evening Wonld have produced the greatest benefit to thousands of people to whom the nefits of higher education are denied. Distinguished professors in the fields of science, literature and art delivered lectures full of the most useful information, presented in the most popular and attractive way. Fine stereopticon views illustrated the words of the lecturers, and the truths they sought to convey were thus doubly impressed on minds quick to apprehend and easer to learn. THE SATURDAY HALF HOLIDAY.

Successful Struggle to Give New Workers Needed Rest.

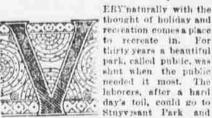

VERY rational being has as fust a claim to recreation and rest as he has to food and sleep because they serve the same ends. Recreation oils the machinery o sthe soul, as food and sleep oil the springs of the body. Especially is this the case with a perple that thinks, feels and noves with the tremendous energy of the American. Hence THE EVENING WORLD fought hard to give the working people of New York a Saturday Half Holiday, and its success in this battle was the success of the people.

recensward and flowers through barred gates. THE EVENING WORLD thought this wrong. It said so. Then it put its shoulder against the ron gates, forced them down and made this breathing spot free to those to whom it be longed.

RAIDING THE POLICY DENS.

Sharp Crusade Against This Horde of Mean and Petty Gamblers. NEMY of all that is bad, that keen-toothed shark, the policy-man. could not pounce upon his victims without exciting an interest on the part of THE EVENING WonLD in his suppres sion. He was almost as "bobtail car. There was no doubt he ought to be uppressed. The only thing was to suppress im. This THE EVENING WORLD proceeded to do. The policy-shops were ferreted out, and squads of police, led by Evening Works reorters, raided them. Many were arrested, convicted and punished, and the police were urnished with the names and addresses of the thers. It was a great fight.

brought back to her parents from Northern New York, where she had been indentured out n Mr. Gerry's Society's humane fashion. This was another signal instance of what The Even-ING WORLD could do for a stricken family, and another blow at an unjust and arbitrary law.

mother was away from home. Mrs. Graham was an actress, and desirons of having her little girl, whom she was abundantly able to support, with her. Thanks to THE EVENING WOELD, the has the child.

THE ROLL OF MERIT.

Industry of the Little Public School Pupils Recognized. OING good to the little ones is a tavorite benefcence of THE EVENING WonLD. The clever little things who were at the head of their classes received an immense stimulus to their praiseworthy ambition to ex-(a) cel when THE EVENING World undertook to put into clear type their names and to tell in what fields they had won their laurels. It was the children's first taste of fame, and the young boys and girls found it a sweet and encouraging one.
